LIEN ON A WIFE'S ESTATE

Habeas Corpus Proceedings in a Larceny Case.

Testing the Legality of an Election.

Business Transacted in the United States Courts.

The trial in the quo warranto proceedings instituted by the People of the State of New You against John Flanagan has been set down in Judge Donohue for the 9th of February. The issue is to try the title of the respondent to his office as civil justice. The prosecution claim that the election was void because conducted in open violation of law, and the prayer of the complaint is that the election be declared a nullity and a new one ordered. On behalf of Judge Fing agan it is set up that the election was a valid one and not in contravention of law. General John Cochrane, George M. Curtis and M. Solomon appear for the People, and David Dudley Field and John B. Haskins for the respondent.

An action has been commenced in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Wallace, by William E. Harding, against Collector Artnur, to recover duties paid under protest upon a large quantity of imported sausages. Recovery is slaimed under the act of 1872, which exempts Bologna sausage from duty, and plaintiff claims that in the common meaning of the term the sausages imported by him come under that act.

The steamer Monterey, while coming into this port from New Orleans, found the steamer Emily . Souder in a disabled condition outside of Sandy Hook and towed her into port. Action was brought by the owners of the Monterey to recover salvage. On close of argument in the case yesterday Judge Blatchford decided that the circumstances of the case tended to reduce the service to towage service, and awarded the claimants

Judge Biatchford yesterday issued an order of condemnation against 20,000 smuggled cigars seized on the steamer Crescent City—the lot smuggled by Francisco Avenant, and for participation in which Custom House Inspector Harris was lately convicted.

Testimony was yesterday taken in the matter of the will of the late James Hendrick, of Morrisants, which is contested by a claimant who represents himself as the son of a former wife still living. The testimony showed that the will presented for probate was legally executed.

THE QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY.

In the suit of Kent vs. The Quickstiver Mining Company and others a temporary injunction was recently granted by the Supreme Court enjoining the company against the issue of any new preferred stock. Judge Daniels, before whom the case was heard in Supreme Court, Chambers, gave his decision yesterday continuing the injunction. The present company was organized in 1867 and the property of the older Pennsylvania company was transferred to it, the stockholders to receive stock share for share in the new company. The stock was fixed at 100,000 shares of $100 each. In his complaint Mr. Kent says that the company in the winter of 1893—70, was insolvent, elepts would cover the company's receipts would cover the cover th 1867 and the property of the older Pennsylvania doing so in the following brief but comprehensive opinion:

This action was commenced by the plaintiff as the owner of breferred and common stock of the corporation for the purpose of preventing the further conversion of common into preferred stock. It is certainly exceedingly doubtful, to say the least, as no power of that kind has been expressly conferred by its charter, whether the corporation can legally authorize such a conversion. As the owner of 200 shares of the common stock, has the equitable right to have sing of preferred stock, has the equitable right to have that doubt solved before any such authority shall be exercised by the company. Whether the preferred stock heid by plaintiff can be sustained as valid it is not necessary to consider at this time, for he has a sufficient interest as the owner of common stock to entitle him to protection grainst the further issue of preferred stock if the company has no power to change its common into preferred stock. It is certainly difficult to discover, under the charter of the company, any source from which the power to issue preferred stock can be serived, and in that view of the case the injunction should be continued to the final hearing in the cause. An order of that nature will therefore be issued.

LIEN ON A WIFE'S ESTATE. In March, 1872, the East River National Bank obtained a judgment against Charles Koehler for $1.049 cl, which judgment was assigned to Frederick H. Mann. Supplementary proceedings having been instituted by Mr. Mann for the examination of Koehler a proposition was made that if these proceedings were discontinued the wife of Onaries Koehler would give a bond and mortgage as accurity for such judgment. This proposition was accepted. A bond to secure the payment was executed, and, as collateral security to said bond, the Koehlers also executed a mortgage to Mann upon certain premises belonging to Mrs. Koehler. The said bond contained a clause binding Mrs. Koehler's separate estate for the payment of the assigned judgment. It was calimed on behalf of Mann that this clause gave him a specific lien upon all the separate estate of Mrs. Koehler celides that mentioned in the mortgage. An action was orought to enforce this lien. The case was tried before Judge Van Brunt, in Supreme Court, Special Term. A decision was given in the mattery esterday, Judge van Brunt holds that, under all the circumstances, a general lien cannot exist, but a lien simply on the premises described in the mortgage. He therefore dismisses the complaint, with costs. Onaries Koehler would give a bond and mortgage

SUPREME COURT-CHAMBERS. COMPLEX JEWELBY TRANSACTIONS.

Before Judge Donohue. George Weyman was brought up yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus previously granted by Judge Brady, on application of Mr. William F. Kintzing. The prisoner and John Craft, as appears in the papers, were formerly engaged in the jewelry business in Maiden lans. On the 30th of November last they suddenly disappeared, when it was discovered that a large number of jewellers in the vicinity of Maiden lane and Broadway had been victimized out of some $10,000 worth of jewelry. Subsequently the missing men were found in San Francisco. From which place they were brought to this city on a requisition from Governor Dix. As a return to the writ District Attorney Rollins prelented two indictments found against both Weyman and Craft for larceny. Mr. Kintzing claimed that the detention was unlawful, that the property slieged to have been stoien was purchased in the ordinary course of trade, and that it was only an attempt on the part of the creditors of Weyman & Craft to collect their claims by using the machinery of the Criminsi Court. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Rollins that he would make an immediate examination into the case Mr. Kintzing withdrew the writ of habeas corpus. In the meantime the prisoner was remanded to the City Prison pending the examination. Subsequently the missing men were found in San francisco. From which place they were brought to his city on a requisition from Governor Dix. As a return to the writ District Attorney Rollins presented two indictments found against both Weydran and Crait for larceny. Mr. Kintzing claimed that the detention was unlawful, that the property slieged to have been stonen was purchased in the ordinary course of trade, and that it was only an attempt on the part of the creditors of Weyman & Crait to collect their claims by using the machinery of the Criminal Court. In meantime the prisoner was remanded to the Cray Prison pending the examination.

Collector of Customs' Certificates.

Frederick Du Barry imported a quantity of sigars in 1878, and proposed to the Collector that he should put the stamps upon the let to indicate that the duty had been paid thereon, and thus to cancel customs charges. The Collector would not permit this, but had the cigars stamped by the customs officer, charging therefor twenty cents per 1,000. Du Barry paid the amount charged for this-operation under profest, and then brought action against Collector Arthur for the recovery of the same. Under the act of 1866 importers are permitted to put the stamps upon their own goods while in charge of the Custom House officers, and the plaintiff contends that, as the law authorized him to do so, the Collector could not legally hinder him from doing so, or compel him to pay the Collector for putting on the stamps. Judge Wallace ordered a verdict for the plaintiff.

COMMON PLEAS-TRIAL TERM-PART 1. DAMAGES FOR A WIFE'S DEATH.

Before Judge Loew. In July, 1871, the wile of Izak Goodman, in attempting to cross East Broadway, was run over by a car of the Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery Railroad Company, sustaining injuries from which she died. Suit was brought by Mr. Goodman, as administrator of his wife, for $5,000 damages. The trial of the case was commenced quinages. The defence is that the deceased came to her death through her own negligence, and that the company cannot be neld liable. The present is the second trial of the case, the former trial, in February last, resulting in a disagreement of the jury. Case still on.

CUSTOM HOUSE NEWS.

Collector Arthur had not arrived in town yesterday, and consequently many matters that are awaiting his decision are withheld by his subordinates. He will be back at his post to-day. Great interest centres in his return, as he is supposed to have finally settled with the Secretary of the Treasury the number of employes that are to be dismissed and the amount of reduction in the salaries of those who are supposed to receive too handsome a compensation.

Mr. Phillipps, the Collector's secretary, said it would be very difficult to approximate the number of dismissals that were to take effect on February 1. In the inspectors' Department, which now numbers 280, the dismissals may be about There will be no reduction in the pay of those who remain, as it is fixed by law at $4 a day. The cierical department, which numbers those who remain, as it is fixed by law at $4 a a day. The cierical department, which numbers about 600, with salaries ranging irom $1,000 to $2,500, will also be reduced and the salaries will be "rendjusted," as the official phrase goes. Of course there is great anxiety among the employés, each one learing that he is among the uniticky ones whose heads are to fall. The reduction of the lorce is not regarded as judicious by some of the heads of the departments, as the business of the custom House may greatly increase without warning. This week, they say, scarcely any reamers have arrived, and next week so many may come into this port that it will tax even the present strength of the force to transact the business with despatch. The reduction in the Naval Office, which, as everybody knows is no naval office in any sense of the word, but simply an auditing department and a financial check upon the custom House, will probably be very slight. The force now numbers eightly, with salaries ranging from $800 to $2,000 a year. Mr. Ladin, the Naval Office, stated that no great reduction could be made in his department without serious determent to the service. He prieded huseli on the fact that the work of the office was done efficiently, and that he neard no complaints about any of his cierks.

The result of the civil service examinations held on the latth of January by Silas w. Bur., Special Deputy; Andrew W. Green and Hurrison W. Guriy has been announced. The position of casnier in the Naval Office, at $2,000 a year, has been awarded to William H. Horton, and that of assistant refund cierk, at $1,800 a year, ho Nathaniel George.

Surveyor Sharpe returned yesterday from Washington somewhat indisposed.

There were no new seizures yesterday, and there have been none for several days, with the exception of certain obscene articles, the importation of which is prohibited by law. The official value of the silks which were sinuggled into this port as cotton hostery has been fixed at $41,147 by the appraisers. The duites which would have accrued would have amounted to only $621, less than two per cent of the value. Mr. Pheips, who is the head of the Seizure Department, said that facts of importance in connection with this case would be given to the public as soon as the Collector returned. There will be an auction of condemned property from the seizure room on Friday morning. Some 200,000 cugars seized since July last, and quantities of brandy, sale.

The receipts of the Custom House have been very considerable of late—increased, as they have been, by the withdrawal of goods from the bonded warehouses, caused by the expectation that the Little Tariif bill will be passed. They are as follows:—January 19, $203,404; January 20, $510,564; January 21, $480,606; January 22, $379,048; January 23, $659,401, and January 25, $459,509. Total for the last six days, $2,704,704.
